The mission of the Nickolas Demidovich Memorial Fund is to raise funds and distribute money to disadvantaged Boy Scouts in the Huntington, New York area, in order to allow them to attend Boy Scout camp and participate in all the activities offered that would otherwise be unaffordable for them to attend. We have money available to help kids out with. If you know of a scout who we could help with some financial assistance, please make them aware of the fund, and have them contact me for an application. Peter Demidovich, peterd1@optonline.net.

As we wrap up the first quarter of our scouting year I’d like to take a moment to thank you all for the work you’ve put in. We had a tremendous Webelos Woods event with over 1,100 Matinecock scouters present at Cathedral Pines. Popcorn has just ended and Matinecock is leading the charge with over $184,000 in sales for a Suffolk County council high (see high sellers below). While we have essentially wrapped up all of our events for the 2014 calendar year, we are fast approaching our events for the 2015 year. January will see our first ever Cub Scout Olympics and the kickoff to our 2015 Friends of Scouting Campaign. February will see our Polar Bear Camporee return to Schiff Scout Reservation and also the Pack Pinewood Derbies and Blue and Gold events. This year in January and February we will also be running our Camp Card fundraiser again. In April, Matinecock will be hosting both the Boy Scout Spring Camporee and the Cub Scout Fun Day in back to back weekends. All great events planned, promoted and carried out by our volunteers. Let’s take this time to encourage our boys to participate and to get out there and support our district.

84 Years of Wolves and Tigers and Bears! Oh, My!

Journey to Excellence

So what is the big deal about JTE anyway?? Why as a leader should I be bothered with the whole thing? Besides, the scorecard is so intimidating looking.

Journey to Excellence is really not that difficult and the benefits are greater than you might think. When done in conjunction with the planning process, JTE helps a unit make the most of their year. At the end of the year, the leadership feels like they have really accomplished something special by attaining the goals of JTE, and parents in your unit know that they are a part of something great. Parents of incoming Scouts know that you run a quality unit.

In order to be successful at JTE, everyone on the Committee should read the score card for the coming year as soon as the charter is filed. Goals for the year can be developed at that time to ensure success. Most units should be able to achieve Bronze based on the regular requirements of a functioning Pack. Other required elements of JTE can be worked into the unit schedule ahead of time.

JTE can be a gentle push to the leaders to do position specific training, as it is a requirement of one of the criteria. Ensuring that the needed amount of outside activities and service projects is easier when starting the planning process than when the year is over. Speaking of service projects, they must be registered in the JTE site. This is not a difficult process. It is on Scouting.org and you will need a separate password. It will take only about 5 minutes to report a project. Did you know that 17 million service hours were reported through JTE in 2013?

Once you have gotten your JTE award, you can use it many ways. The patches are great awards to give the leaders of the unit. It can be posted on your PIN on BeAScout.org and put on your letterhead or website.

How to tell if your child is being bullied (or is the bully himself)

Bryan Wendell posted (10/1/2014): "There is no federal anti-bullying law in this country, but there is a law in Scouting. The Scout Law reminds us to be friendly, courteous and kind. Still, we'd be naive to think that bullying never happens in our organization. What's important is that you, the trained adult, take time to recognize bullying and stop it. October is Bullying Prevention Awareness Month, so I'd like you to read nine signs your child is being bullied and eight signs your child is the bully himself or herself. The source for this info is stopbullying.gov, a U.S. Department of Health & Human Services website with a wealth of great resources.

9 signs your child is being bullied

1. Unexplainable injuries
2. Lost or destroyed clothing, books, electronics, or jewelry
3. Frequent headaches or stomach aches, feeling sick or faking illness
4. Changes in eating habits, like suddenly skipping meals or binge eating. Kids may come home from school hungry because they did not eat lunch.
5. Difficulty sleeping or frequent nightmares
6. Declining grades, loss of interest in schoolwork, or not wanting to go to school
7. Sudden loss of friends or avoidance of social situations
8. Feelings of helplessness or decreased self esteem
9. Self-destructive behaviors such as running away from home, harming themselves, or talking about suicide

8 signs your child is the bully

1. Get into physical or verbal fights
2. Have friends who bully others
3. Are increasingly aggressive
4. Get sent to the principal's office or to detention frequently
5. Have unexplained extra money or new belongings
6. Blame others for their problems
7. Don't accept responsibility for their actions
8. Are competitive and worry about their reputation or popularity

What to do next

If you see warning signs that your child is being bullied or is bullying others, take the next step (more can be found at: www.stopbullying.gov/prevention/talking-about-it/index.htm)

Bridging to Boy Scouts

Webelos to Scout Transition:

It's almost time for our oldest boys to leave the nest, so to speak. Are they ready? Are their parents ready? Boy Scouts is a big transition. We hear it all the time, "boy lead". We get it, but do our boys and parents? Now is the time to really ramp up our efforts to prepare our boys and parents for the change ahead. Our Council even has a booklet to assist you. "The Webelos to Scout Transition Handbook" is available on the mattdistrict.org website under Resources and Links.

So what do we do? Arrange for visits to local Troops. Now that you have seen some Troops in action from Webelos Woods, you may have narrowed down your selection of appropriate Troops for your Den. Have their leadership speak to the parents about how Boy Scout Troops work.

Discuss with your families that Troops have different personalities and that the basis for selection of a Troop is where their son wants to go. Wanting to be there will make the difference in staying there. Encourage the Webelos to make additional visits to the Troops that they liked the most.

Unit leaders can help by fostering a relationship with the local Troops, so that the Webelos see the Boy Scouts often and begin to look forward to what they will do when they make it to a Troop.

Boy Scouts

Where Eagles Dare

Scouting has always included Science Technology Engineering and Mathematics (STEM) but the content is often hidden in other activities. Not every youth wants to be Daniel Boone, some want to be a Bill Gates. The Boy Scouts of America's NOVA Awards program incorporates learning with cool activities and exposure to science, technology, engineering and mathematics for Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts, and Venturers. By working with an adult counselor or mentor, the various modules allow them to explore the basic principles of STEM and discover how fun and fascinating STEM can be.

There are four Nova awards—one for each of the STEM areas—and each Boy Scout can earn all four. Completion of any Nova award earns the Boy Scout the right to wear the Nova award patch. Completion of each additional STEM Nova award is recognized by a pi (π) pin placed on the patch. Each of these awards builds on STEM-related merit badges, involves hands-on activities, and often includes a field trip. The four Nova awards for Boy Scouts are the following:

- Shoot!
- Start Your Engines
- Whoosh!
- Designed to Crunch

The Supernova awards recognize superior achievement in the STEM fields and require significantly more effort by the Boy Scout than the Nova awards. The Supernova awards are available to all Boy Scouts who have achieved the rank of First Class.

See the Council website: scbsa.org/stem for the resources to get started.

Commissioner's Corner

Unit Service and Roundtable

We are beginning the Charter renewal process strong. There are approximately 29 units being processed for this first round. Many are in the council office with few problems. Please try to get the packages in on time. Congratulations to all who participated in this year's Webelos Woods, especially the leadership of Matt Schieferstein, Jeff Duncan and our Program Chair Matt McEvoy. We had great weather, Troop performance, Cub unit's enjoyment and education. We have lots of training underway and continuing throughout the year. Please take advantage of it, especially new unit leaders and den leaders. Boy Scout leaders please motivate your Scouts to become Den Chiefs, our Cub leaders need them dearly. Thanks for all you do helping our youth. If I can be of any assistance please don't hesitate to contact me.
