Stop what you're doing, turn to the nearest volunteer, and give them a hardy pat on the back for an outstanding October. Any way you slice it, October was a busy month. Thank you, each and every one of you, for your tireless efforts to provide character building programs for the youth of your units.

Thank you to the more than 1,000 attendees that joined us at Cathedral Pines for Webelos Woods. Despite the chill in the air and the foreboding Sunday forecast, everyone seemed to thoroughly enjoy themselves. The smiles on the Scouts faces made it clear that the event was a resounding success. We would love to hear your feedback, please email any thoughts, suggestions, and/or youth impact stories to liz.jumper@scouting.org and we'll keep your feedback in mind as we begin to plan Webelos Woods 2016.

We're nearing the finish line with re-chartering and recruitment. I encourage you to consider every unit meeting as a recruitment opportunity this fall. Encourage your Scouts to bring a friend to Pack night, the upcoming hike in Blydenburgh Park, or to your Thanksgiving Food Drive. Let's provide every opportunity for youth to discover how fun and interesting Scouting can be. Please return completed applications to the Council Office as quickly as possible. Once a child registers, they consider themselves a Scout, we want to make sure it's official ASAP. Thank you for your help in collecting any applications that are still floating in the District. Congratulations to the 8 Packs that earned FREE DERBY CARS for their entire unit by recruiting 10 or more youth this fall! Great work!

I also wanted to apologize and clarify the confusion with fall re-chartering. We are moving every charter in Suffolk County Council to expire on December 31, 2016. There are a handful of charters in Matinecock that have expired on October 31 or will expire on November 31 of 2015. Re-chartering for these units will be completed the month their current charter expires, but will extend through December 31, 2016. If your October 31st charter has expired as a result of this miscommunication, do not fear, we'll work with you to ensure that your charter is secure. November charters, please contact your unit commissioner if you have any questions.

Thank you all once again for your tireless efforts with popcorn sales, recruitment, and providing top-notch programs for Matinecock Scouts. Let's finish 2015 with a sprint to the finish line!

85 Years of Wolves and Tigers and Bears! Oh, My!

Don't Reinvent the Wheel

It's just an hour a week. How many times have we heard (and chuckled over) that phrase? Scouting takes planning. But we don't need to do it alone. The BSA has endless resources for us to make it easier to carry out our jobs. Often and for many different reasons, we think we need to do it all ourselves. Did you know that pretty much every meeting you can imagine has plans for it already? Den meetings, Pack meetings, even Roundtable meetings have detailed plans written out for our use. There is a leader handbook that is now rank specific instead of one huge manual. How cool is that? But all the books in the world can't help unless people know about them. Make sure your Tiger leader is aware of the leader manual. Maybe it would be great for the Pack to purchase the manual as a gift to the new leader. Tiger leaders especially find the manual useful as they are often the least sure of how to run a Den. There are other books available to help out as well. Leader How to Book and Group Meeting Sparklers are two great resources to use to supplement the Den meeting books. Scouting magazine has a lot of good ideas in it as well. So don't go it alone!

Succession Planning

I can see your eyes rolling. Just kidding. You know what they say, your first job in Scouting is finding your replacement. Especially if you are a unit leader. The idea behind the "planning" is that it shouldn't be done in panic mode. Don't wait until someone is leaving because their son is crossing over to start looking, but start the planning process a year or so ahead. But where to begin? Gather a few people who know most of the members of your Pack together to discuss. This could either be at a Pack Planning Meeting or Committee Meeting, or even informally. Identify the positions that need to be filled. Who in your group would be a good match for that position? Consider their personality, organization skills, and their other commitments to other groups. If you would have a great candidate for Cubmaster who may be weak on communication but will run an amazing meeting, find an Assistant who can do the communication. Recruiting someone to take leadership of a unit is not a one conversation thing. I'm sure it took more than one attempt to get you to take your current position. After the shocked look wears off their face, speak to them about the position, and assure them that there is plenty of support available from inside the unit, the Service Center, and the BSA website. Tell them the reasons why you think they would be a great leader. Ask them if they have any questions about the position. Let it sink in and give them time to think it over before you press them for an answer. Have a backup plan just in case they turn you down. If they do, keep the door open for another position. If they agree to take the position, be sure to help get them going, give them resources and follow up with them. Like recruiting, succession planning should be ongoing. If it becomes a habit within the Pack, it will be much easier to do.

Boy Scouts

Where Eagles Dare

Sea Scouts is a specialized segment of the Venturing program, which was organized to address members' boating skills and promote knowledge of our maritime heritage.

Sea Scout units, called "ships," focus on sailing and cruising either sailboats or power vessels. During the boating seasons, Sea Scouts learn to maintain and operate then vessel, with a focus on learning the safe and proper methods of handling boats. Sea Scouts also learn the meaning of buoys and lights, how to take advantage of wind and tide, and how to drop anchor or approach a dock.

Most ships hold formal meetings conducted in either full dress or work uniforms. Swimming, lifesaving, first aid, Coast Guard Auxiliary Sailing and Seamanship, and cardiopulmonary resuscitation courses are taught with the ship by our own officers.

How old (or young) can a youth be to join Sea Scouts?

Sea Scouts is a co-ed program for young men and women who are 13 years of age and have completed the eighth grade or are 14 and not yet 21 years of age.

Can females be registered members of the Sea Scout program?

The Sea Scout program allows females to be registered youth or adult members of the program, as long as they meet the age and membership standards of the Boy Scouts of America.

How can I become an adult volunteer in Sea Scouts?

Any person, male or female, who is 21 years of age or older and meets the membership standards of the Boy Scouts of America can apply to be an adult volunteer with Sea Scouts. Generally adult leaders should have an interest in or skills related to nautical, boating, or underwater activities.

Are Sea Scouts the same as Boy Scouts or Venturers?

The Sea Scout program is a part of the Boy Scouts of America and is for older youth. Members are the same age as Venturers, but work directly with nautical programs.

Can a Boy Scout earn his Eagle Scout award as a member of a Sea Scout ship?

If a Boy Scout joins the Sea Scout program as a First Class Scout, he can earn the other ranks including his Eagle in the Ship or his Troop.

Can Sea Scouts earn Boy Scout or Venturer badges and awards?

Sea Scouts can earn any of the Venturer badges or awards. Boy Scout badges and awards can only be earned by the male members of the Sea Scouts if they have completed their First Class Scout rank prior to joining the Sea Scouts.

Commissioner's Corner

Unit Service and Roundtable

From The Desk of “The District Commissioner”: Thank you to all who have gotten their Charters in during the month of October despite all the confusion. November and then December to go and we are done. Thank you all.

Please think of your commissioner as a consultant to your unit, offering expert advice or services based on his or her knowledge and experience. In business, consultants often command high fees for their knowledge. Not so, in Scouting. Commissioners simply want to help their units succeed. Often, the commissioner has direct knowledge and experience that can help the unit immediately. In other situations, they will introduce another person as a resource, an expert on a particular topic, someone serving with the district committee perhaps, to assist the unit. Please consult with your commissioner. If you would like to be a commissioner, please see me and if I can help you in any way please do not hesitate to contact me at:

Tom Rolston, Matinecock District Commissioner, 631 368 7022 or trolston72@gmail.com

Silver Beaver Nominations Open!

Each year, the National Council Boy Scouts of America charges every local council with identifying and recognizing those Scouters who have taken community service to an extraordinary level. The Silver Beaver is the highest award that a council can present in recognition of a Scouter's service to Scouting and the community.

To be selected as a Silver Beaver recipient, a Scouter has to be nominated. The Silver Beaver Selection Committee has to rely on you to bring worthy nominees to our attention. The nomination form and criteria for nomination is available on the Council website (www.sccbsa.org). Please submit your nominations as early as possible and before mid December. To assist you in the nomination process feel free to contact Mike Kramer at MKLeader2@gmail.com. Recipients of the Silver Beaver will be honored at the annual Council Fellowship Dinner on March 31, 2016.
